AccessAbility, Inc. Introduces AAI SecureDocs

Document Conversion Business Builds Training and Employment Opportunities that Boost the Local Economy

MINNEAPOLIS – December 5, 2005 – Minneapolis non-profit AccessAbility, Inc. today introduced it is changing the name of its document conversion and destruction divisions to AAI SecureDocs. The new name, AAI SecureDocs, embodies the expansion of its Document Conversion business to include its shredding and disintegration services.

AAI SecureDocs picks up a customer's paper files and securely transports them to its non-public satellite location. Documents are prepared and digitized and, if a customer desires, can be destroyed under one roof. AAI SecureDocs is the only non-profit company in Minnesota that is an imaging service bureau as well as a full service destruction company. This combination of services eliminates the need for customers to transfer records from one vendor to another and adds security by limiting handling and transportation. Customers spend less time administering vendors and save money related to space, transportation and destruction costs.

AAI SecureDocs also continues to build alliances with local, for-profit competitors. These companies benefit from an untapped workforce that is trained and available to fill new positions or work on a contract basis for large, one-time projects.

While AAI SecureDocs offers secure and reliable imaging and shredding for local businesses, it also provides valuable training and work experience for people with disabilities and people transitioning off of welfare. The resulting employment directly boosts our local economy.

AAI SecureDocs is AAA Certified by the National Association for Information Destruction (NAID). NAID is a national accreditation institution that oversees authorization of personnel, equipment and process specifications, close-monitored security system implementation and mandatory documentation. AAI SecureDocs is also a partner in the national Secure Document Alliance (SDA). This partnership expands its destruction services from regional to national in scope.

Founded in 1948, AccessAbility, Inc. is a non-profit rehabilitation agency and production/training facility that removes barriers to employment for underemployed populations in our community. AccessAbility provides an array of other services including packaging, assembly, mailing and fulfillment, in addition to special recreational and leisure programs to impact more aspects of the lives of individuals served in our community.
